My math teacher, Mr. Huang, is a very interesting man. He likes to speak English, but his English is very poor. Many of my classmates enjoy his class because they enjoy his funny English. Our math class usually begins with a dialogue like this:

“Good morning, Mr. Huang.”

“Good morning, glass. Sit down, police!”

Mr. Huang’s funniest word is “three.” He always says “three” like “tree.” One day, he tried very hard (and the class laughed very hard!) to say “three trees!”

But my math teacher is a very nice man. He never minds our laughing, so the students feel comfortable with him. In fact, he teaches math very well. We really learn a lot from him — both math and English!

Dear Ron,

I don't mean to show off, but life here is TERRIFIC! I never knew that taking a holiday in Cabuta could be so much fun. Yesterday I got up early and went swimming at the beach. Cabuta has long, clean beaches. After breakfast I rode a bicycle to do some shopping. (I've got you a very special present!) Then I had lunch in a small restaurant. The seafood was so fresh and delicious! I went back to the hotel and spent the afternoon reading Cheyenne. Before I came here, I tried to find some time to read the novel, but was always too busy.

In the evening the hotel gave a party for the guests who were born in July. I ate a lot of cakes. I drank wine, too! It's just the third day in Cabuta, but I've already fallen in love with it!

My dad is a sports fan. He reads the basketball and baseball news first. If his favorite team wins a game, he will be happy all day, but if it loses, well, stay away from him.

My mom often finds useful tips about doing housework in the newspaper. Last weekend she made a very delicious cake for us. She learned it from Martha's World.

My sister, Judy, reads only about movie stars and popular singers. She also spends almost all her money buying CDs and posters.
