Stars on Earth is a meaningful and touching movie for parents, teachers and all audience. If you love your children, you will love this movie.

The movie is about an 8-year-old boy, who was thought to be lazy and a troublemaker. His name was Ishaan Awasthi. Ishaan had problems with reading and writing, so he couldn't get anything right in class. His teachers and parents thought he didn't study hard enough. Ishaan's parents decided to send him to a new school. However, things still didn't change at his new school.

One day, a new art teacher, Ram Shankar Nikumbh came to school. He broke all the rules by asking his students to think. All students liked the new art teacher. Ran found the real problem behind Ishaan's struggles in school. Ram did his best to help Ishaan. At the end of the movie, Ishaan even won the art competition and found his own value.

Sometimes, breaking wind makes people really embarrassed because it may make a sound and smell bad. Of course, most people don't like to break wind and think that breaking wind is an annoying problem. However, it is normal to break wind 14 to 23 times a day. But when the gas is too much, it becomes a gas problem.

Some people have gas problems because they feel nervous all the time. Some people who eat too fast or drink lots of fizzy drinks, like soda, may have the same problem, too. So, this gas problem is a sign that tells you something is wrong with your body or your eating habits.

To solve this annoying problem, people can try to eat slowly, avoid chewing gum and stop smoking. But if these suggestions don't work, people should go to see a doctor and check their digestive system.

Have you ever had any problems with setting goals at the beginning but never achieving any of them? Or are you tired of making plans for something but giving up soon? Here are some tips that will help you set your goals and make them easier to achieve.

1. Be specific. Take studying English for example. “I want to study English hard” is not clear. “I want to study English for an hour every day is clearer and more specific. A specific goal helps you know how to work to achieve your goal.
2. Go on record. Writing down your goals helps you remember them and shows how much you want to achieve them. Put the list in a place where you can often see it, like on your desk or in your notebook.
3. Start slowly. If you want to study English for an hour every day, begin with half an hour a day first. Building a study habit little by little will make you feel confident, and it will be easier to achieve your goal.
4. Tell a friend. Share your goal with your family or a friend. They can help you when you have trouble. They can also cheer you up when you want to give up.
5. Reward yourself. Give yourself a little gift when you do well. It helps you keep going on.
