Leo is a junior high school student. His father drives him to school every morning. Before he goes to school, his father gives him NT$50. He used to spend the money on some snacks or drinks at school.

Two months ago, Leo felt that his shoes were a little small. He wanted to buy a new pair. His father bought him a pair of white shoes. Leo didn't like them because they were not cool at all. He wanted to buy a new pair, so he started to save his money. He didn't buy snacks until he was really hungry. He brought a bottle of water from home, so he didn't need to buy any drinks. After two months, Leo had almost NT$3,000. He was so excited that he could buy a cool pair of shoes for himself. However, before he went to the shoe shop, he saw his father's shoes. They were old and dirty. Leo felt bad after he saw them. At last, Leo bought a new pair of shoes — for his dad.

- () 27. How did Leo save money?
 (A)He never buy snacks. (B)He didn't drink any water. (C)He didn't buy any water (D)He didn't buy new shoes.

Alice: Why did you put a cockroach in my pencil box?

Jack: Oh, I did it just for fun. Did you like it?

Bob: Why did you have a bite of my bread?

Jack: Oh, I did it just for fun. It was delicious.

Cindy: Don't pull my ponytail. It hurts.

Jack: Just for fun. I like girls with long hair.

Dan: Why did you lock my bike with yours?

Jack: Just for fun, and I'd love to ride home with you.

Everyone got angry with Jack. He really had a lot of fun playing tricks on others, but he didn't know it was not fun to be made fun of. All his classmates decided to teach him a lesson. Guess what happened yesterday. Jack found no one wanted to talk to him. He was unhappy and felt bored.

Jack: Why didn't you talk with me, Alice?

Alice: Just for fun.

Jack: Why didn't you play with me, Bob?

Bob: Just for fun.

Jack: Why don't you want to go home with me, Dan?

Communication with friends, family, teachers and classmates is important in our lives. Do you understand others' inner meanings well while you are talking with them? Maybe you can hear their voice clearly. However, to hear is one thing, and to listen is another.

A study shows that 93% of communication is non-verbal languages. It means we only understand 7% of conversation through verbal languages. That is why you can understand what people say easily by talking with them face to face, but you cannot do it well by talking with them on the phone. When you talk with someone, you can see his body language. You can also look in his eyes, hear his voice, and listen to the different tones of his voice. They're all called non-verbal languages. They are important keys for you to know what others are thinking.

When you talk with others, don't forget that communication is a two-way street. Non-verbal languages play an important role in a great communication. If you want to know others well, and you also want them to know you well, don't forget them!
