One Christmas Eve, a hard-working worker, Mr. Cratchit, asked Scrooge, "Sir, could I spend the holiday with my family? My son, Tiny Tim, is sick." With a mean look, Scrooge shouted, "Bah! Humbug!"

Mr. Cratchit left sadly. Suddenly, a ghost came down and looked at Scrooge angrily. The ghost showed Scrooge an image. In it, a lonely man lay sick in bed. He passed away slowly, but nobody felt sad for him. Scrooge stared closely and realized that the man was himself! The ghost warned, "Change your ways, or this is your future. You will be miserable and die alone."

Afterwards, Scrooge felt regret for what he did. So he went to Mr. Cratchit's home and handed him a large turkey, presents and medicine for his sick son.

Scrooge became a different person from top to toe. Years later, people wondered what changed Scrooge's heart. The old man would only smile and say, "It was the Christmas Spirit."
