A Taiwanese Lifejacket

Everybody knows that the best way to be safe in the water is to wear a lifejacket. Yet, many people don't like to wear lifejackets because they think lifejackets are too big or too heavy. Have you ever wished you could buy a lifejacket that was smaller and lighter?

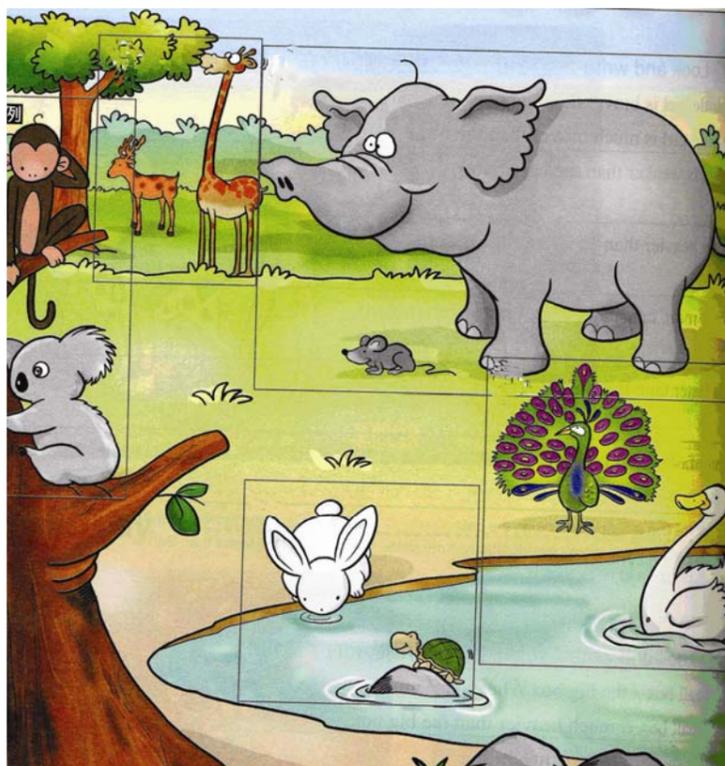

A Taiwanese inventor named Mr. Tseng has just the answer to the problem! Mr. Tseng noticed that many people drown every year because they don't want to wear a heavy lifejacket. Drowning in the water is a serious problem for both adults and children.

Mr. Tseng decided to put an inflatable bag in a device as small as the size of a watch. Now, people can wear one on their wrist, not around their body. Mr. Tseng called his lifesaving device that "Fixblessing," and it sells for about US $ 80, or $ 2630 Taiwan dollars.
